

Rewards & Recognition

Encourage Workplace and Driver Safety

In 2019, employers reported in workplace injuries and illnesses, and in crashes involving large trucks.

If a company doesn't prioritize safety procedures, they are in danger of losing good-quality workers, facing large lawsuits and fines, and ultimately losing their customer base.

Companies that reward and recognize safety understand that safe work environments lead to improved business practices and increased employee morale.

When you reward & recognize positive behaviors

WORKERS

General safety practices

Safe forklift ops & maintenance

Correct materials handling

Organization & cleanliness

Proper wear & cleaning of PPE

Participation in OSHA training

Preventative ideas & solutions

DRIVERS

Achieving 'mile' stone goals

Modifying driving behavior

Improving safety scorecard

Dedication to safety results

Policy adherence to avoid tickets

Mentoring newer drivers

Completion of training your business is rewarded, too.

Increased Profitability

Improved Morale

Deeper Loyalty

Boost in Productivity

Added Motivation

Talent Retention

Positive Team Culture

Inspirus.com

